Huron slapped with lawsuit

By Steve O'Leary
ANP Staff Writer

The Township of Huron was slapped with a $10 million lawsuit Monday by Browning-Ferris Industries Inc. (BFI), reportedly charging that the community's ordinances regarding landfills are unconstitutional and that the attitudes of the residents is unfair.

Sources say the suit not only asks for the $10 million, but also that the landfill be allowed in and that the Huron Township pay all attorney and court costs.

Township Supervisor A.J. Haener says he was handed the documents on Monday afternoon "about 1:30 or so."

"I suppose it could be explained rather easily," said Haener. "We've pretty much run our course — which isn't to say we're giving up, we're not, but they've (BFI) asked for certain ordinance variances although this and we've turned them down."

"They took the matter before our zoning board, planning commission and the township board, which turned them down on the recommendation of the planning commission. I guess they figured that this was their next step. It's all in the hands of our attorneys right now."

It'll be in the Wayne County Circuit Court, but we don't know when it will be coming up yet."

Neither Haener nor Vicki Lyons, president of the Huron Valley Citizens Association (which has a membership in excess of 500) claim to be worried about the lawsuit, although Haener says he harbors no doubts that BFI is very serious about the suit. Lyons, on the other hand, thinks it is a scare tactic, a "response to our activities at the airport this past week and to our continually growing support."

Volunteers from the citizens association, which were limited by Metropolitan Airport security to eight at any one time, passed out 3,000 pamphlets and gathered more than 800 signatures on petitions condemning the proposed landfill at I-275 and Sibley in Huron Township over a 10-hour period.

Concern has been voiced over this site, which would reportedly be just slightly more than 10,000 feet away from the airport's main runway. Michigan State Public Act 641 states that there shall be "no landfill within 10,000 feet of a runway."

Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, has introduced legislation, which would prohibit a landfill from going in that same distance to a proposed runway, and there is speculation that Metropolitan Airport is considering expanding the runway, which would bring it within the banned area.

Regardless, citizen groups, members of the Airlines Pilots Association, the Federal Aviation Administration and others have spoken out against the proposed site as not only a health hazard, but as a threat to airline safety as well.

According to the FAA, there have been more than 150 deaths nationwide from "bird strikes," which is a plane/bird collision or ingestion of a bird into an engine.

Since 1980, there have been 22 of these "strikes" at Metro Airport injuring passengers, damaging planes and forcing emergency landings.

Quick stopover

ANP photos by Chief Photographer
Lothar E. Konietzko

First Lady Nancy Reagan's stopover in Romulus last Thursday proved to be much quicker than planned. First, a planned meeting-photo session with Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally was cancelled. Then, to the astonishment of the hoard of press photographers and television cameramen, Mrs. Reagan just stepped off of the plane, waved once to the press, and disappeared inside a waiting limousine. After waiting for two hours, the security-cleared photographers were each forced to click off one picture on their cameras to make sure they weren't actually bombs. All for 10 seconds at 200 feet.

Counseling, shelter address problem of domestic abuse

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

"The other day we had a woman come direct from Indiana with her six children. She had been a former Westland resident. It was so sad, because she said to one of the kids 'we're going to have to go to a shelter,' and the kid said 'Well, you do what you have to do.' He was about eight years old, and said 'you do what you have to do.' Amazing."

Statistics show that one out of every three homes in Michigan experience domestic violence. In the United States, there is one case of spouse abuse reported to authorities every 60 seconds, yet it remains the single most unreported crime in the nation.

Chances are it has happened to someone you know very well, but never suspected. Maybe it even happened to you.

First Step, located in Westland near Hines drive and Ann Arbor Trail, is an organization striving to help those in need with crisis counseling, information and referrals, and shelter, if needed. It is called the Western Wayne County Project on Domestic Assault; Working For Homes Without Violence, and its been in existence for nearly five years now.

The shelter, which is located approximately 10 miles away from the office and was one of the original goals for First Step, celebrated its first birthday on Feb. 14. There, a maximum of 20 women and their children can reside for a period of up to 30 days.

"One father was so tough on his family, if the kids did anything he didn't like, he'd sell their bikes. His punishment of them was so inappropriate."

Jane Dewey, executive director, and head counselor Millie Jaffe said that since opening, the shelter has been filled to capacity nearly every night.

"As a matter of fact," said Jaffe, "we've had to turn away eight people in the past three days, because there's just no place for us to put them."

Dewey claims that the organization also gets sizeable amounts of help from local civic groups, churches and individuals.

"We depend very much on volunteers, even for secretarial jobs," said Dewey, "because we just can't afford to hire them. Which isn't to say that they aren't well qualified, because they are — there's about 20 hours of training involved."

First Step has a paid staff of nine, and approximately 70 volunteers.

According to Jaffe, many of the volunteers are women who first came in touch with the center because they were victims.

"It's like one woman who had been through it all said to me the other night, when she stopped by to help out with group counseling, 'It's a long dark tunnel and I couldn't see the light for awhile, but believe me, it's there'."

SPECIFIC CALLS ON CRISIS LINE AND FOLLOW UP:

Community	total # of families contacted	# go to shelter counseling
Westland:	84 families	13 shelter, 71 crisis counseling
Wayne:	26 families	6 shelter, 20 c.c.
Inkster:	39 families	8 shelter, 31 c.c.
Canton:	46 families	2 shelter, 44 c.c.
Romulus:	24 families	5 shelter, 19 c.c.
Bell/Van Buren/ Sumpter/Huron:	20 families	2 shelter, 18 c.c.

"She's in her early-30s now," said Jaffe, "and it's good for everyone that she stops in every now and then to pass on what she's learned."

Statistics show that 87 percent of abusive husbands come from abusive homes, and that 33 percent of abused wives come from them, although Jaffe "believes it's a much higher percentage than that."

"The only time it really gets frustrating for me is when a client remarries, and marries someone else who is violent."

"A woman who was an abused child and whose parents were abusive towards one another is already a victim before she ever gets married. Often, she'll choose a man who will continue to victimize her."

According to Jaffe, "this problem has been around forever, but it's just in the last 10 years that it's been coming out of the closet."

Space, as well as workers and — this is the big one — funds continue to hamper the work of First Step. Perhaps restrict is a better word, because, as Dewey explains, "if we had larger facilities, even two or three times as large, we would still have them filled in all likelihood. We'd love to be able to house 40 or 50 families, because that way we would insure that help is given to them, because sometimes, if people are referred from one place to another, they'll give up looking for help."

"I had a client from Westland who came to group last night, and it was really funny, because I had seen her and her husband, and he was impossible. He used to mark down when she went to the store, what time she left, what time she came home, he'd check the odometer on the car. He'd never let her do anything. He was very violent; once, he pushed her out of a car on the expressway when he got mad at her.

"I worked with him for about a month, but it became obvious that he wasn't going to change because he felt he was in the right. Finally, he filed for divorce and she was devastated. She went through a very tough year in our support groups, and we watched her grow, and get some good feelings about herself because she had been put down for so long by him that she believed it."

Anyway, she came by last night driving a brand new car she had bought. She had been sitting in a donut shop at 6:30 in the morning, looking through the want ads in the Westland Eagle, and she was sitting next to another woman who said 'listen, I work in a factory. They pay $11 an hour and they're looking for help,' so she went with her and got the job, and has had a promotion since then. I just wanted to know if her husband has seen the car, because he'll have a heart attack when he does!"

First Step operates on a budget of $215,000 which Dewey says is "really a meager amount, but it is getting better."

For funding, First Step receives 37 percent of its budget from the state, they are reimbursed from the Department of Social Services for low-income women who make use of the shelter, and receive a "small grant from United Fund," according to Dewey.

"Over half of it — more than $100,000 — we have to raise from the communities."

Dewey claims that certain cities and townships in the area, notably Westland, Plymouth, Taylor and Livonia are "faithful funders," meaning that they can be counted on every year for support. "We've also picked up Romulus, Canton, Dearborn Heights and — for the first time — Belleville. Also, we're awaiting a decision from Wayne, who has funded us in the past."

"We'd like to let people know that we're still looking for more volunteers, and that we appreciate deeply any kind of help people can give," said Dewey. "If anyone wants speakers for their clubs, organizations or schools, we're available and willing. We all need to help stop the problem of domestic violence."

Anyone offering or in need of assistance can call First Step at 525-2230.

"One of my clients was a victim of incest as a child, moved into an abusive marriage, and then came in for individual counseling with two broken arms. She was referred to us by a hospital. She's been a client for about two years, and she went back to school, got her nurse's degree, has a job, her children have gone for help, she's moved out of the situation and into her own place, went through a horrendous custody battle where the husband used the incest against her."

"It was just a long road, but now she's doing beautifully. She stops by every month or so, just to touch base, which I think gives the other women some real incentives, shows them what they can do, that they have the power to change their lives."

Michigan Week

Race, mayor's visit highlight activities

While the roster of events is chocked to the brim for Romulus during Michigan Week, perhaps the biggest one of all will be the second annual Romulus Community Pride 10K race, which is expected to attract participants from all over the state, according to Dennis Davidson, the city's community relations director and co-founder of the race.

"We expect to have at least twice as many participants this year as we did last year, because the word that went out was that Romulus held a very good, professional race," said Davidson.

Last year's race brought together participants from four states and even included runners that have ran in the highly acclaimed Boston Marathon.

The race got an unexpected boost when Control Air Freight, Inc. offered to sponsor the event. That is the firm that recently acquired the vacant Harrison School.

"One of the great features of our race is the large number of awards we can present, thanks to the generosity of our sponsors," Davidson explained, adding that "there will be three Holiday Inn 'Holidome' packages to the top male, female and wheelchair finishers." A grand prize drawing for a Republic Airlines round-trip ticket to any of their 160 domestic stops will be a major highlight of the event.

Additional information and entry forms can be had by calling the office of Romulus Adult Education at 941-0610. The race will begin at 9 a.m. on Saturday.

Historical treasure

In a special ceremony, held April 3, the bronze building plaque was removed from the wall of Harrison Elementary School and presented to the Romulus Historical Society to be preserved for posterity.

The Harrison School buildings were purchased this past year by Central Control Air Freight, which will make the Romulus site the headquarters for their international operations.

Finalists

17 advance in HOSA competition

Romulus Senior High School HOSA students came away with more than their share of honors at the annual Region III Career Development Conference held recently at Howell High School.

There were more than 11 chapters competing in the Health Occupations Students of America HOSA competitions.

Schools that sent competitors were Livonia Career Center, Taylor Career Center, Howell High School, Monroe High School, Grosse Ile High School, Plymouth-Canton High School, Saline High School, Tuscola Career Center, William D. Ford Vocational Center and Chelsea High School.

There were 17 events with 20 finalists from Romulus.

Local qualifiers for the state competition included Pat Harris, Extemporaneous Health Display; Lisa Courtney, Joyce Gregory and Denise Murawski, Medical Spelling; Jenny Holbrook, Janine Darda, Terry David, Terri Coatsworth, Dan Yordy, Lorenia Muwakkil and Lorenzo Glenn, Earl Hagle, First Aid-CPR (team events); Ron Webb, Job Seeking Skills; Lynda Moore, Cheryl Hawk and Joyce Gregory, Prepared Speaking; Juanita Forbes, Lori Christensen, Elise Holt and Rhonda Fairris, HOSA Bowl (team event) and Jenny Holbrook, Terri Coatsworth, Janine Darda, Terry David, Denise Murawski and Troy McClendon, Parliamentary Procedure (team event).

HOSA is a national organization for students enrolled in vocational Health Occupations Education Programs. The mission of the organization is to enhance the delivery of quality health care to all.

The purpose of HOSA is to develop leadership and technical skill competencies through a program of motivation, awareness, and recognition, which is an integral part of the Health Occupations Education Instructional Program.

The Romulus Chapter HOSA advisors are Robert Brock and Karen Samples.

The finalists will compete in the state competition on May 4 and 5 at the Kalamazoo Hilton in Kalamazoo. Those winning the state will compete in the national competition in Orlando, Florida, June 27 through 30. Last year, Romulus High School had three winners.

Romulus attracts new motel

Romulus will soon be getting a new hotel, following an announcement recently by The Marcus Corporation, a Milwaukee-based operator of hotels, motels, restaurants and movie theatres.

Construction of the three-story, 102-room motel, which will be located at 9000 Wickham Road, will begin this month. Completion is scheduled for November 1984.

According to Steve Marcus, president of the Marcus Corporation, the Romulus Budgetel Inn fits well into the company's plans to expand the chain into the east and south.

"We look for areas near highways that will satisfy our customers' tastes. We cater to two audiences: business travelers and families on weekends," Marcus said. "We did a state-wide search, and determined that the Romulus site was a prime location for us."

There are currently 15 Budgetel Inns in operation, primarily in the Midwest. Construction of two other Budgetels, one in Jackson, Michigan, and one in Jackson, Tennessee, will also get under way this month.

The Budgetel concept is of offering quality lodging accommodations at affordable rates and has proven highly successful since being introduced in 1974.

"We're able to keep our rates low by eliminating costly, seldom-used frills such as bell-men, room service, convention/banquet facilities, in-house restaurants and cocktail lounges and swimming pools," David Lucas, senior vice-president of Budgetel, said.

According to Lucas, Budgetel's rates are usually 20 to 25 percent lower than the going average room rate in the area.

Budgetels feature large rooms, full baths, guest-controlled heating and air conditioning, color television with free satellite programming, free local telephone calls, 24-hour desk service and free beverages.

Educators join council

The Wayne County Intermediate School District has announced the appointment of William Murphy of Romulus Community Schools, and Douglas Brown of Van Buren Public Schools to the Wayne County Career Education Planning District (CEPD) #42 Council.

Each will serve a two-year term.

The CEPD Council is charged with the responsibility of reviewing program applications and funding packages for the 35 school districts in Wayne County. All new program proposals and multi-district consortium agreements are also approved by the council.

Murphy will represent the Vocational Education Planning Committee, and Brown will represent the Wayne County Curriculum Directors.

Henry chairs panel

It was announced last week that Sharon Henry has been named to chair the new Romulus Arts Committee, just one of many new committees being set up by the city's community relations director, Dennis Davidson.

Henry says she is "looking for people interested in virtually all aspects of the arts," and counts among her planned activities an art show, a community choir and a revival of the nearly-forgotten Romulus Community Playhouse.

"I need people with ideas," Henry said.

Anyone interested is invited to attend the first meeting, which will be held at the Romulus Library at 6:45 p.m. Monday, April 23.

Food distribution set

Senior citizens wishing to receive free government cheese should note that the April giveaway is scheduled for 1 p.m. Thursday, April 26.

The same guidelines will be used as in the past. Those qualified to receive the foodstuffs should pick up their allotment at the Romulus Senior Center, 36515 Bibbins St.

City Hall closed

Residents should be alerted that Romulus City Hall will be closed on Good Friday, April 20. Business will resume as usual the following Monday.

Society seeks site

The Romulus Historical Society is looking for the donation of a local building or home which could serve as a museum, where their collection of historical artifacts could be on display and available for the people of the community to enjoy.

The society is registered as a charitable organization, and donations, such as a building or funds for that purpose would be tax deductible.

Anyone who feels they could help find a suitable home for the Romulus Historical Museum should contact president Pearl Varner at 697-9628.

Board posts filled

Mathew Raftary was recently named to the Romulus Economic Development Corporation. Also, Councilman Noah P. Bergeron was appointed to the news-making PCHA Board of Directors.

Softball

signups accepted

Youth softball registration is being held at the Recreation Department offices, located at 36515 Bibbins. These programs are aimed at boys and girls aged 8-17. For more information, call 941-0666.

ings, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation. No one argues the fact that the solid waste dump would attract flocks of birds to feed on the waste, but most groups are skeptical of Lyon Development/BFI's plan to fence in the dumpsite.

Richard Thomas, director of the Michigan Aeronautics Commission stated he will remain opposed to the proposed fenced-in dump until he is convinced "beyond a shadow of a doubt" that it would be safe.

Despite the opposition, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources has approved the construction site. However, the approval of the Wayne County Solid Waste Management Planning Committee also is needed before the project can begin.

There will be a public hearing on this and other proposed area landfills tonight (April 17) at 7 p.m. at the Wayne Intermediate School District offices, located at Van Born and Howe Road in Wayne.

"Concerned citizens need to get out and be heard," Lyons said. "We can beat these things, if we all pull together and really try."

Ship ahoy

John Ramsey, owner of the recently opened I-94 Marine in Van Buren Township, hands Shirley Batey the key to his new fishing craft while Batey's son-in-law Ronald Stacey looks on. Located at Expressway Commerce Park, the new shop in town offers a complete line of small boats and supplies.

'Setting sail'

I-94 Marine opens new showroom

History repeats itself with the opening of I-94 Marine, a boat showroom and shop in Van Buren Township's Expressway Commerce Park. The store is just a couple of miles east of the long gone Kay Boats, still a fond and familiar memory to area sailors. "Since Kay Boats closed 20 years ago, there haven't been any boat facilities in the immediate area," said Chuck Paas, owner and operator of I-94 Marine. "We think there's a real need for what we offer."

Located at I-94 Service Drive between Haggerty and Belleville Roads, the new store celebrated its grand opening last Friday. Grand opening festivities will continue until April 22. The new store's specialty is smaller boats. The line of products includes Glastron and Glastron/Carlson boats, Sting Rays, Smoker Crafts, Custom Frame and Shorelander Trailers and Mercury Outboards. "In the good old days of Kay Boats, a 25-horsepower outboard was the largest size available," Paas noted. "Today, we're talking about 300 horsepower outboards." Boats are displayed in a 10,000-square foot showroom, as well as outdoors. The store offers a full line of accessories from water skis to paints, and staff mechanics provide fiber glass and boat haul repairs. The store is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays, and from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturdays. Sunday hours are from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Volunteers of Year

Horste, Greathouse earn honors

Van Buren Township has selected two of its residents to be honored as Volunteers of the Year. The honorees, Pat Greathouse and Cathy Horste, were honored for their outstanding efforts at the township's March 13 Board of Trustees meeting. "He came out of retirement to serve Van Buren Township... to loan us his keen negotiating skills," cited Township Supervisor George Craven of Great-house. A retired UAW vice-president, he moved to Van Buren Township in 1961. He was a part of the famous Cuban negotiations team in the early 1960s and has served the township as a volunteer in many posts. Greathouse, a nationally recognized negotiator, recently represented the township in its long and difficult contract negotiation with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME). Horste, of the GFWC Belleville Area Intermediate Study Club, was praised by Van Buren Township Clerk Delphine Dudick for her outstanding community work done through the study club for such local projects as Girlstown and the Giving Tree. She also was cited for her volunteer work as the township constable, the township historian, and as a reserve police officer for the township. The awards were made in conjunction with the joint City of Belleville-Van Buren Township proclamation of April 1984 as Volunteer Month and April 24 as GFWC Federation Day.

Foe meets foe in desert conflict

Army Pfc. Michael J. Beekman of New Boston, has become somewhat of a legend to units that visit a desolate training site in California's Mojave Desert.

Beekman is a member of one of the U.S. Army's "Opposing Forces" or OPFOR units that use Soviet tactics, vehicles and Warsaw Pact-style uniforms to confront visiting units from across the country in realistic war games that test the preparedness of U.S. armor and infantry forces.

Beekman, 19, the son of Joseph and Carol Roussey of New Boston, is an armor crewman assigned with the 1st Battalion, 73rd Armor, one of two OPFOR battalions at Fort Irwin, Calif.

"I'm a gunner on a U.S. Sheridan tank modified to look like a T-72 Soviet tank," Beekman said. "It's hard to explain the feeling of rolling into battle with more than 100 tanks, but we have a lot of fun 'bumping off' other units and showing them we own the Mojave."

While the use of Soviet tactics and vehicles makes training believable, a laser-equipped device called MILES (Multiple Integrated Laser Engagement System) allows the opposing units to harmlessly "fire" and "kill" each other on a simulated battlefield. MILES simulates small arms, cannon and rocket fire with eye-safe laser beam systems attached to the actual weapons. Hits activate beepers and flashing lights, attached to harnesses on soldiers and vehicles, indicating "kills."

"The laser warfare is really realistic," Beekman said. "We also have fake chemical, nuclear and biological attacks during our battles. Our training here really resembles what the modern battlefield would be like."

"It's kind of fun to kill off the Blue Force (visiting unit) tanks with the MILES lasers," Beekman said. "And, I think a lot of valuable lessons are learned here. The theory behind the training is to let people learn from their mistakes here instead of in real combat."

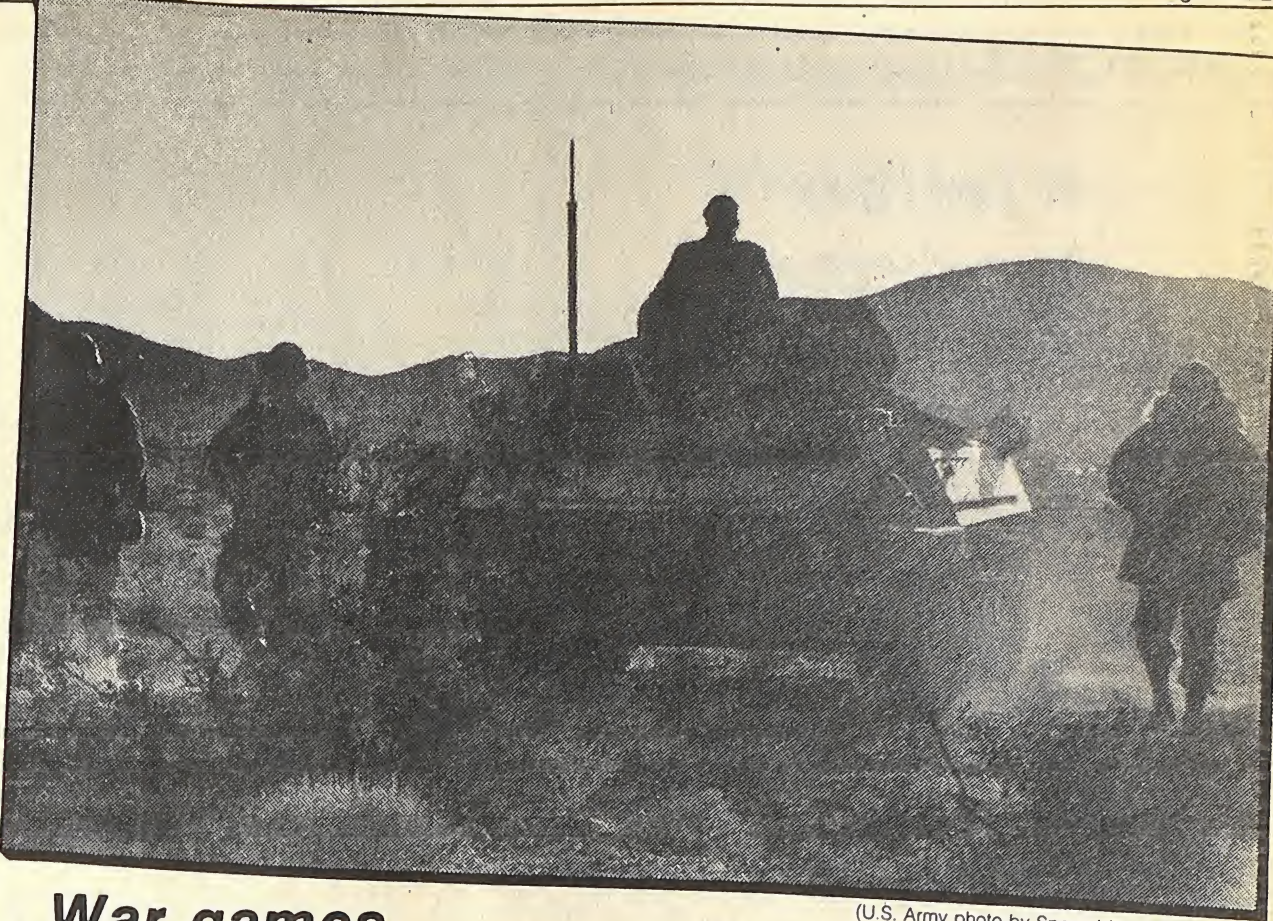

Located nearly 40 miles from Barstow, Calif., Fort Irwin is situated in the "high desert" between Los Angeles and Las Vegas. Temperatures can be extreme, climbing to more than 120 degrees in the daytime in the summer and plummeting to freezing at night.

While the 1,000 square-mile post has been used by the Army since the mid-1800s, Fort Irwin was officially opened as the Army's National Training Center in 1981.

"The weather's great most of the year," Beekman said, "but my Michigan blood could deal with a cooler summer. On long weekends, my friends and I usually take off to Los Angeles or Las Vegas to get away from the desert for a while."

"The nearest town is 40 miles away, so I just can't stroll over to my girlfriend's house whenever I feel like it," Beekman said. "but, all in all it's a good place to be, because it'll really make me appreciate going to Germany next year."

Beekman is a 1982 graduate of New Boston Huron High School.

DAVID J. WILLETT
PUBLISHER

Your obedient servant

I discovered him about 10 years ago when I first began to study genealogy. He was a true hero of the Revolutionary War — a soldier of the first rank and, above all, a gentleman.

Marinus Willett, my great uncle five times removed, has fascinated me since I found him in my family tree. He is a great source of pride to me, having studied his life and times, and in some ways, I aspire to be like him.

Marinus corresponded regularly with General George Washington, always signing his letters "Your obedient servant, Marinus Willett." He would write to Washington of his efforts and the struggles of his soldiers. He wrote of the pain and the difficulty they were enduring during the war, but always with a spirit of purpose, always with an ideal in mind which seemed to be more important than any hardship or tribulation. He seemed to be a man willingly committed to a purpose.

I thought again of Marinus recently after viewing a film titled "The Dresser." In this drama of human relationships, Tom Courtenay portrays a man committed totally to a purpose. His commitment is to "Sir," an aging and feeble Shakespearean actor struggling to prepare and perform one more masterpiece of thespian excellence during the height of World War II in England. Albert Finney's performance as the actor, devoted to bringing relief and culture to the war-torn countryside through his performances, is tremendous — and Courtenay as his 'dresser' — the man who bathes him, feeds him, tells him his lines and coaxes him through his last performance is a masterpiece. Without the dresser, there would be no show.

At the death of "sir", Courtenay is left alone, his service but a memory. His years of dedication are not acknowledged in any way, even the preface to "Sir's" autobiography mentions nearly everyone else, including Shakespeare, and omits a man totally committed to his task and his master for 16 years.

After seeing the distress of the dresser at the death of his employer, one cannot help but contemplate the nature of service to others ... to a job, a political office, a relationship, a cause, a church or a service club. What is a rational approach to service to others in our "me" society?

"The Dresser" brings a strong message. He had become so engrossed in serving the needs of his "Sir" that he lost his "self." It is my contention that we must protect our "self" sufficiently to bar other factors in our lives from engulfing us. If that occurs, we have become no more than an indentured servant, serving causes or personal relationships in which we no longer believe.

If one can no longer serve any master, no matter what it may be, without resentment, anger, hostility or the loss of one's own identity, it may be time to look for the door.

Service should be an act of job, an act of love and an act of sharing. How awful when it becomes akin to slavery. Service above self is a viable concept today. Traditional groups like Rotary speak of it, the author of the best seller "Megatrends," talks of the restructuring of our society into "service" functions rather than "manufacturing" employment. A renewed sense of volunteerism seems to be emerging rather than the "Let the government do it," attitude that has prevailed.

Marinus Willett, I believe, understood service. He was a man committed to an ideal, a purpose and to his leader ... but he was, above all, his own man who made his own choices, decisions and selected his causes carefully.

See you next week.

Landfill near airport poses safety hazard

The proposed creation of a 75-acre landfill at I-275 and Sibley in Huron Township does not serve the best interests of either area residents or passengers on flights from Metropolitan Airport.

Testimony from pilots, airline and transportation officials at public hearings this week should confirm what many have already feared: birds attracted by the garbage at the dump site could cause plane crashes.

According to reports from the Federal Aviation Administration, 150 persons have died in plane crashes caused by "bird strikes." At Metro Airport, 22 of these strikes have injured passengers, damaged planes and forced emergency landings since 1980, say officials with the Michigan Department of Transportation.

Despite such troubling data, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources has approved a construction permit submitted by Lyon Development, a subsidiary of Browning-Ferris Industries Inc. However, approval to open the site, located some 10,000 feet from the runway, also must come from the county Solid Waste Management Planning Committee.

One of the bright spots in the debate surrounding the proposed landfill has been the informational services provided by the Huron Valley Citizens Association, a group of concerned citizens who have launched a campaign in opposition to the dump location.

Association members have not remained idle while the issue of locating a landfill near the airport has been discussed. The term "power of the people" has been in evidence as volunteers have worked diligently in opposition to a potential health hazard. Their efforts ultimately could save a life if their goal of defeating landfill proponents is realized.

We agree with the association members that "the public using the airport has a right to say, 'This is an unsafe place and if a landfill is necessary, put it somewhere else!'"

The possibility of this landfill jeopardizing lives in the air or on the ground is a real one, in our opinion. Those who wish to get involved in a critical issue can contact the Huron Valley Citizens Association at P.O. Box 132, New Boston, Mich. 48164.

We believe that concerned citizens can help avert a potential disaster in Huron Township.

Memories of Boobie

Carl "Boobie" Murray always said he'd grow up to be the tallest baseball player in the major leagues. That is, of course, unless he became a lawyer or a judge instead.

Life holds unlimited options for a 13-year-old. Especially a 13-year-old with a love for life.

"Carl was such a quiet baby, sleeping all the time," recalled his mother, Shirley Murray. "Sometimes I would blow gently in his ear and whisper 'Boo' just to get some type of response. He would open his eyes and smile ... he was so pretty. 'Boobie' was my name for him."

The quiet newborn would develop into quite an extrovert. No one was a stranger to Carl. He was too outgoing to let shyness stand in the way of friendship.

Growing up in Inkster, Carl enjoyed the sports that most kids his age enjoy. He played football for the Inkster Raiders and a change of seasons would find him on the basketball court or the baseball diamond. Athletics, rated ahead of homework at times, but mama made sure his schoolwork wasn't forgotten.

When the Murrys moved to Ann Arbor, Carl fit in easily with his new classmates. On a rainy Tuesday last April he headed for the neighborhood grocery store to run an errand for his mother after shooting some hoops with friends.

It would be his last errand. The driver claimed she didn't see Carl in time to avoid hitting him as he crossed the street on his way back home. A wet pavement and poor early evening visibility had produced a disastrous set of circumstances.

For five days the teenager lay helpless at St. Joseph's Hospital, dying from internal injuries. Shirley Murray, a nurse by trade, could merely watch as her only child fought a losing battle.

"He gained consciousness on the third day but he could not talk," his mother remembered. "I would ask him if he recognized me and he'd squeeze my hand."

"That's how I knew he was aware of what I was saying. So I told him: 'Someone else loves you more than I do. You know who I mean?'"

"And his eyes went upward and I knew he understood."

"Then I said ... In case you don't make it, you save a place up there for mom." And he blinked an eye at me."

On April 10, 1983, Carl "Boobie" Murray's dreams of being the tallest baseball player in the major leagues came to rest.

Shirley Murray, daughter of a minister, has returned now to live in Inkster, closer to her family and friends. She still cries on occasion but admits, "I haven't completely broken down yet. I haven't gotten all my feelings out yet."

She did write a little poem for Boobie on the first anniversary of his passing last week.

*"In life I loved you dearly,
In Death I love you still.
For in my heart you have a place,
That no one else can fill."*

MADD deserves plaudits

Crime in today's society often makes the headlines while the victims of crime merely become statistics.

Thanks in large part to such organizations as Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD), the needs of these victims are beginning to be recognized.

April 15 to 21 has been proclaimed National Victim Rights Week by President Ronald Reagan in support of the National Organization of Victim Assistance and other national groups, including MADD.

MADD is the voice of victims of crimes committed by drunk drivers. The group supports victims' families in their bereavement and in the adjudication of drunk driving cases in the local courts. Most importantly, MADD volunteers are working to get the drunk driver off the road.

We join with MADD in endorsing the recent action of the American Bar Association to amend its written standards with the provision that "the prosecuting attorney should make every effort to remain advised of the attitudes and sentiments of victims and law enforcement officials before reaching a plea agreement (read plea bargain)."

It is appropriate to observe National Victim Rights Week by commending MADD for its efforts to date. Drunk driving is a problem that has been ignored by our court system for far too long. Plea bargaining over such offenses had turned into a travesty of justice with the rights of victims and their loved ones forgotten or abused.

In addition to publicizing the injustices, MADD offers psychological support for those victimized by drinking and driving crimes. The Wayne County chapter of MADD sponsors a support group that meets at 7 p.m. on the third Thursday of each month on the campus of the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

These informal sessions in the Gabriel Richard Center allow for meaningful interaction among those who previously lost dear ones in drinking and driving crashes.

Such concern for victims of crime is well founded and long overdue.

State representatives protest intervention

To the Editor:

On behalf of the 38 Michigan State Representatives who have joined together in urging the President and Congress to stop American military intervention in Central America, I request that you run the enclosed open letter to the President and members of Congress in your newspaper.

PERRY BULLARD,
Chair House
Judiciary Committee

We, the undersigned members of the Michigan Legislature, oppose recent efforts to increase military aid to the government of El Salvador and to the Contras in Nicaragua. We believe that the people of these countries have the right to determine their own affairs, without intervention from the United States or from any other country. Moreover, we believe that the best interests of the American people will be served, if our government abandons the short-sighted attempt to find a military solution to the conflicts in Central America, and pursues instead a long-range diplomatic approach.

The current Administration proposed $93 million in "emergency aid" to the Salvadoran Armed Forces. Since 1980, the U.S. has given over $200 million in military aid to the El Salvadoran government. However, no resolution to the civil war is in sight. The murders of American missionaries and land reform workers go unpunished. Thousands of El Salvadorans are still subject to random violence from right wing death squads, and new evidence appears almost daily to link the death squads to high ranking government officials. The United States should no longer invest its money or its international prestige in a government which continually fails to respect even the most basic standards of human rights.

The current Administration proposes $21 million for Contras in Nicaragua, to be administered by the Central Intelligence Agency. The CIA-backed efforts to overthrow the Nicaraguan government are a violation of international law, have contributed to the militarization of Honduras, and have only decreased the chances for democratic reform in Nicaragua. Furthermore, the CIA activities make it more difficult for the U.S. to have peaceful and productive relations with the countries of Central America.

The current Administration, in a cynical and offensive political maneuver, has tied military aid for Central America to a humanitarian aid bill to relieve drought conditions in Africa. This attempt to hold starving Africans hostage to the debate on Central America is an insult to the prerogatives of Congress and a disgrace to all decent Americans.

We call upon the United States government to give immediate aid and assistance to the drought-stricken nations of Africa, without regard to the outcome of the Congressional debate on Central America. Furthermore, we call upon the President and Congress to halt further military aid to the government of El Salvador and to the Contras in Nicaragua, and to pursue a comprehensive diplomatic solution to the conflicts in Central America.

Alertness saves pet

To the Editor:

A tragedy was averted thanks to an animal technician at the humane society in the City of Westland.

My dog, who answers to "Licker," accidentally strayed from our home. A call was placed to the Wayne Police Department, who informed me that there was no ordinance officer in attendance at that time. The person answering the phone took all the details and promised to call me if any trace of Licker came through.

Meanwhile, I placed an ad in the newspaper and also had it advertised on Cable TV. On two occasions members of my family went to the dog pound only to be told that there were no dogs brought in. I might add that they were not permitted to view the dogs that were in the pond. As the days passed, I began to give up hope of ever seeing Licker again.

A few days later I received a call from the Humane Society, saying that they had Licker and were just about to inject him when the animal technician spotted his name and phone number on his collar. She immediately called me, and I went directly to pick him up.

Needless to say, we were both elated to see one another again. It was at this time that I realized that Licker was at this time that I realized that Licker was at the pound at least four days, and no one had bothered to look at his collar. I don't believe there is any excuse for this apparant lack of interest on the part of the ordinance officer. I also have reason to believe that this type of thing goes on much more than the taxpayer realizes.

In my case, I was very fortunate. I got my dog back, but I can't help wondering about all the other owners of pets who weren't quite as fortunate. This incident has given me plenty to think about. It makes me wonder where my tax dollars are going.

By way of closing, I would like to thank that animal technician once again for caring, being alert and for following through to place a call to me. It's comforting to know that there are still people out there who care and take pride in their work.

Point of clarification

To the Editor:

We are writing in response to an editorial that recently appeared in the Belleville Enterprise praising the Belleville Athletic Booster Club.

We would like to thank the newspaper for your support, but would like to clarify one point. The Booster Club funds two-thirds of the total $125,000 athletic budget. This means we must raise $85,000 a year. We are still short $30,000 to pay for the 1983-84 season. If we are unable to reach this goal the boosters have told the school board we do not intend to ask to be carried another year.

As active members of the Booster Club we can tell you this is not a good way to fund an entire athletic program. Depending on community donations and a few tired parents can not go on indefinitely.

One of the misconceptions that we feel our community feels about the boosters is that we are only concerned about athletics. Speaking only for ourselves we believe 99 percent of our members have always supported school millages and want a complete education for all of our students.

It is heart breaking to watch a once proud band dwindle to a handful of members, an auditorium that is no longer used to produce the plays that the community had come to love. But the saddest thing is knowing that today's elementary students will be losing two full years of education by the time they graduate, if we do not return to a six-hour day soon. The high school students graduating now are already feeling the effects of their shorten days. They must make up needed classes before going to college or are being denied entry to schools of their choice.

We would hope that our school board will ask for millage to restore a complete program to our schools in the annual June election.

Will the boosters be around another year? We don't know. When 350 kids are depending on you it is hard to decide which one isn't worth our time. Our hope is that the community will wake up to the needs of the Van Buren students and let us become "boosters" to encourage the program instead of substaining the program.

Thank you, leaders

To the Editor:

Anyone can be a Girl Scout leader. The Girl Scout leaders in the Wayne-Westland area are fun-loving, understanding, caring creative adults, helping every girl recognize and realize her own potential. Girl Scout leaders find great personal satisfaction and personal growth as they help uncover each girl's unique better self through the Girl Scout program.

Wayne-Westland Area Girl Scout leaders are a very, very special kind of people like:

Brownie leader Karen Bratcher, a single parent with no girls in Girl Scouting.

Brownie leader Sally Hamrick, mother, homemaker, full-time college student who still continues with her Brownie troop.

Junior leader Jane Tscherne, newly graduated from Senior Girl Scouts, attending college, returns each week to meet with her Junior troop.

Cadette leader Pat Keister, mother, homemaker, community leader, is also leader of a Junior troop and the Area Chairman of Wayne Westland Area Girl Scouts.

Senior Advisor Helen Kendall a Girl Scout leader for 22 years.

If you know a Girl Scout leader in the Wayne-Westland area April 23, is her day! Please take a moment to say thanks!

If you are a Girl Scout leader in Wayne Westland our caps are off to you! Have a great Green Ribbon Day!

Editorial's a winner

To the Editor:

The Eagle's lead editorial about Superintendent Timothy Dyer titled "End of an Era" (April 4) ought to win a journalistic prize.

Dr. Dyer's 23 years of service to our local schools has found him winning some and losing some, yet few will challenge his vision and firm direction.

Hopefully the new Wayne-Westland Board and Wayne County Community College's Board of Trustees will learn the all-important distinction between a board's role of governance, i.e., policy setting; and its duty severally and collectively to respect the chief administrator's operative field, that of administration. In doing so the board and its chief executive officer will provide the best education for all citizens, children and adults at the lowest cost.

I, too, see education as government's most important function.

Support HR 1904

To the Editor:

Will your readers please write to our U.S. Senators and ask them to support bill HR 1904 with the Murphy/Erlenborn Amendment, that will give federal life protection to handicapped infants who may be denied nourishment or treatment by doctors and parents.

The infants will be placed under the Child Abuse Act.

A weaker Senate bill, S 1003, will have professional doctors' and health associations share the decision to treat an infant with government and hospital officials. Doctors' groups often do not support life for all people.

Write to Senators Carl Levin and Donald Riegle at the Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20515 in support of HR 1904. God bless you.

S.A.M., keep working

To the Editor:

Enjoy your column very much, and would like to answer the waitress that signed, S.A.M.

Count your blessings and keep on working without complaining.

No job is a piece of cake. If you don't like working where you're at, get yourself another job. Your boss might feel the same way about you, as you feel about him.

More praise for Mack

To the Editor:

I would just like to pass a word of praise for our 11th district County Commissioner Milt Mack. We have a commissioner who is not afraid to speak what he believes and he speaks for the people he represents as they direct him to.

He is trying to work with the C.O. office. After all we the people did elect William Lucas to direct Wayne County. So let's give him a chance, if by chance you do not agree with him, let him know at election time. Until he has been given a chance we do not know what he can do.

Mr. Mack is to be commended for the job he is doing representing and keeping the people of District 11 informed of the happenings in Wayne County.

Thanks Milt.

Prayer is a private practice

To the Editor:

I was thinking what a big issue prayer had become, with everyone giving their pro and cons, I mean to have prayer in the schools. The following are my thoughts on the issue.

Recently, an immense concentrated effort to instill in the Constitution "The right of prayer in schools," failed to pass despite the President's appeal. All this time and money spent to insert prayer into law just was a wasted effort from the beginning. Needless, this united front could have been put to better use.

To begin with our right of prayer has never been threatened. An individual, group, churches of any denomination, are free to pray anywhere, anytime, or any hour. Prayers are uttered everyday, and people are encouraged to pray. Prayer is a means of asking assistance in all endeavors whether personal or not. We say prayers in the mornings, before we partake of food, in large or small gatherings, when we give thanks, during our sorrow, happiness, hope, at bed time, etc. All these prayers are voluntarily — not mandated by law, this is all the more deader than compliance.

A great deal of people go beyond prayer. They place their hopes, good fortunes, etc., on rabbit foots, four-leaf clovers, other artifices. A lot of these are worn around their neck, wrists, fingers, ankles, visible to all. I have yet to hear any group or groups trying to stop this practice.

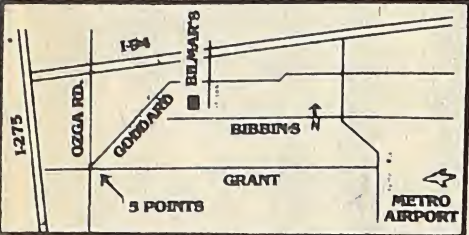

As for me, I will continue to look toward God, talk to him by means of prayer and will encourage others to do so. I have yet to find anyone more qualified, or better suited to have as an ally.

the letter writer . . . by genny eades to ask my boss these questions, but I don't know how to do it or what to say.

Sincerely, MJK

Dear Boss:

Please accept this letter in the spirit in which it is intended, i.e., a sincere effort on my part to receive some positive feedback from you as to my future growth potential, if any, with the corporation. My attitude is to competently and professionally conduct the functions of my job.

As you are aware, I have been employed with the corporation for two years in the Data Processing Department except for my eight month stint in the Accounting Department. At the inception of my employment, my salary was $4 per hour. After two years, I am earning $4.32 per hour. This is, obviously, not a good indication that I am of value to the company, however, my present low salary is not my primary concern.

I find myself, on a daily basis, doing routine, mundane work that in no way challenges my abilities or my potential. I look around me and see many areas where substantial changes could be effectuated at an increase in production and a decrease in costs. It is by no means my intention to critique or undermine administrative procedures, however, I am feeling frustrated at my inability to provide input in areas where constructive changes should be made.

In addition, I would welcome an opportunity to discuss my status with the company. Ideally, I would like to make my employment a career with your company, however, I need some reinforcement as to the likelihood of this being a reality.

May we get together? I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely, MJK

RESOLUTION: The boss called her in, and MJK is not the company president yet, but she did receive encouragement and an opportunity to gather more training toward future growth.

Allen-Romick repeat vows

St. Peter's Catholic Church in North Canton, Ohio, provided the setting for the recent nuptial of Andrea Marie Allen of that Ohio community and Richard Kenneth Romick of Wayne.

The bride is the daughter of Marvin and Sue Allen of Canton, Ohio, while the groom is the son of R. Carl and Carol Romick of Wayne.

The bride chose a white gown, accented with Victorian lace and chapel-length train. She wore a picture hat and carried a fur muff to complete her bridal ensemble.

Given in marriage by her parents, she exchanged her "I do" before Fr. Thomas Petry in the double ring ceremony. Soloist was her brother, Scott Allen, while Linda Nolan served as the organist.

Matron of honor for the ceremony was Tracy Strombotne of Worthington, Ohio. She wore a maroon taffeta gown with ecru top and her bouquet of flowers included a lighted candle in a hurricane lamp.

Serving as bridesmaids were Valerie Cook of Palo Alto, Calif., and Rachael Romick of Wayne, sister of the groom. Their outfits and bouquets matched that of the honor attendant.

The groom asked Charles Farnham of Oklahoma City, Okla., to serve as best man. Serving as ushers were Earl Mullins Jr. of Houghton, Mich., and Dennis Allen, brother of the bride, of Worthington, Ohio.

A reception for the newlyweds and their 200 guests was held at the Harley Hotel in Columbus Ohio, before a honeymoon ski trip to Snowshoe, W. Va.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Romick are residing in Ann Arbor.

Blackwell-McClelland wed

The chapel at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, provided the setting for the March 16 marriage of Ginger Lynn Blackwell and Lt. Timothy James McClelland of Belleville.

The bride is the daughter of Senior Master Sgt. and Mrs. Roy Blackwell of Sheppard Air Force Base. She is a 1980 graduate of John T. Hoggard High School in Wilmington, North Carolina, and a 1983 graduate of Aladdin's Beauty College in Wichita Falls, Texas.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James McClelland of Belleville. He is a 1978 graduate of Belleville High School, a 1982 graduate of the University of Michigan College of Engineering and received his pilot's wings in the Air Force in December 1983.

The matron of honor for the ceremony was Mrs. Debra Farrell, of Boston, Mass., sister of the bride. The bride was also attended by Barbara Vanadore of Wichita Falls, with Mindy Montgomery of Wichita Falls was the flower girl.

Brother of the bridegroom, Patrick McClelland of Belleville, was the best man. The bridegroom also was attended by Lt. Kevin Neilan of Vance Air Force Base, Oklahoma. Ushers were Lee Blackwell, brother of the bride of Sheppard AFB and Lt. Barry Wehre and Lt. Frank Rogers, also of Sheppard AFB.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Gateway Inn in Wichita Falls.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents for the wedding party and all out-of-town guests on March 15 at the Gateway Inn. Friends and relatives attended from Georgia, North Carolina, California, Massachusetts, Texas, Oklahoma, Oregon and Michigan.

Those traveling from Belleville to Texas in addition to the bridegroom's immediate family included Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilkinson, Scott Wilkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Don Sterling.

Lt. McClelland and his new bride expect to spend the next several months at Patrick AFB in Florida and then move to their permanent assignment at George AFB in southern California.

Pickle Barrel Inn

General store is converted into first class restaurant

By EVE SILBERMAN
ANP Staff Writer

Ann Arbor has its Gandy Dancer; an old train station converted into a popular bar and restaurant. And now Willis has its Pickle Barrel Inn; a 133-year-old former general store and post office whose 19th century atmosphere meshes with a 20th century bill of fare.

Located at 10265 Willis Road (some ten miles from Belleville), the Pickle Barrel is both a family affair and a labor of love. Co-owners Jim and Carol Kovalak spent four years renovating the building after completely gutting its interior. The family — Jim Kovalak's an excavator — did 80 percent of the labor themselves.

The driving force behind the effort is Carol Kovalak, who for years had hugged close a personal vision of what a restaurant should be.

"Plastic you can get anywhere," says Kovalak, who is completing a culinary arts degree at Washtenaw Community College. "I wanted to create a unique, old fashioned place where people would really like to visit."

The new restaurant offers moderately priced breakfast, lunch, and dinner items — including cocktails. "It took us several months, but we obtained Augusta Township's first liquor-by-the-glass license," says Kovalak. (Willis, population 800, is an unincorporated village in Augusta Township.)

Pickle Barrel Inn is open from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. weekdays; 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays, and 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sundays. Dining room service runs till 10 p.m. weekdays and Saturdays.

Kovalak takes special pride in the dinner selections.

"Where can you get old-fashioned pork chops these days?" she asks. "Frog legs? Chicken Kiev — most people haven't even heard of it (chicken breast wrapped around seasoned butter, baked until golden and covered with mornay sauce)."

Besides the honest-to-goodness pork chops ($8.95), frog legs ($7.95), and Chicken Kiev ($6.95), Kovalak has included some of her family's Hungarian specialties — like paprikash. A sauteed chicken dish served on homemade dumplings, the "very time consuming" meal, is the Thursday night special. Other nightly specials include prime rib (Saturday) and an all-you-can-eat fish fry (Friday).

Menu selections include basic grill items (like the Barrel Burger, $3.95). A creamy French onion soup is a popular selection, says Kovalak.

Serving up to 150, the restaurant is decorated Turn-of-the-Century American. The Kovalaks strove for authenticity by displaying items like an 1882 coffee mill, and a 150-year-old "menu" blackboard which they purchased from a one-room Pinckney schoolhouse. Ornate stained glass windows, including a Tiffany hanging, and converted gas lamps add warmth and brightness to the dining room. The cocktail area (former living quarters

Good news, bad news

The good news first. The Red Wings made the playoffs for the first time in many a moon ... The Pistons are in the playoffs ... The Tigers made it through spring training without injuries and start the season with a better team than the one that finished second last year ... The Wolverines won the NIT ... Bobby Knight lost (he got a bad call from a floor mike) ... Billy Sims stays with the Lions ... Detroit can change its name back from the city of chumps to the city of champs ... We can look forward to championship auto racing at MIS, the Grand Prix downtown and the thunderboats on the river ... The return of the ASA "Tournament of Champions" ...

Now the bad news. Anthony Carter broke his arm ... Gary Mazza got fired by the Spirits and that's unfortunate because Gary is a nice young man who loved what he was doing ... Al Blade leaves the Wings to sell Pizza Pizza in Tulsa Tulsa ... Dennis Davidson got turned down for press credentials by the Detroit Tigers, the only pro team in town to do so as of now ...

The Tigers take pride in their farm system, as well they should. But, with four farm teams, will somebody tell me why they only have two Minor League pitching coaches and no hitting instructors when most organizations have a pitching coach for each team and at least one batting coach. Strange, isn't it?

Here's my picks for "coach of the year" in pro basketball and hockey.

Fairlane Assembly presents 'Alive'

The musical and drama departments of Fairlane Assembly will present the Easter production of "Alive" for nine performances starting at 7 p.m. Friday and running through next Tuesday at the church, 22575 Ann Arbor Trail in Dearborn Heights.

A cast of more than 150 musicians, actors and choir members will participate in the story of the life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. More than 12,000 persons are expected to attend the play, offered at 1, 4 and 7 p.m. Saturday; 10:30 a.m., 3 and 6 p.m. Sunday, and 7 p.m. Tuesday as well as the Friday opening.

The production will be directed by David Richards and Darrell Ovenshire.

Rev. David Richards, Musical Director at Fairlane Assembly, is an accomplished trombonist and baritone soloist. He has added many innovative and exciting branches to the Musical Department since joining the staff at Fairlane in 1980. Among the extensions under his direction are the Fairlane Orchestra, the Adult Hand Bell Choir, a graded choir system for youths, and the "Musical Missions."

The "Musical Missions," comprised of members of the Sanctuary Singers, have been invited to tour Germany, Por-

A scene from Fairlane Assembly's "Alive" production shows Jesus, played by Rev. Gus Flaherty, as He is led to His execution by cast members.

Westland seniors plan trips

The Westland Seniors and Friends Travel Group is taking reservations for a trip to the New Orleans World Exposition, June 7-10, and to the Chesaning Showboat performance of Tennessee Ernie Ford, July 10-11.

The Louisiana World Exposition trip includes round-trip air transportation, round-trip bus transfers between pick-up point and the airport, round-trip bus transportation between the New Orleans Airport and hotel, and bus transportation while in New Orleans aboard a deluxe highway motorcoach.

While in New Orleans, travelers will stay at the Ramada New Orleans Hotel while receiving a two-day admission to the World Exposition on the banks of the Mississippi River featuring Bob Hope, The Boston Pops, Bill Cosby, Willie Nelson, Roy Clark and many other entertainers.

Also included are a Dixieland jazz, champagne breakfast on the Riverboat Natchez, open-menu dinner at the famous French Quarter Restaurant, tugal, Spain, and Switzerland in July, 1984. The 1982 missions outreach, visiting Holland, France, Belgium, England, and Germany where they held concerts in and around the cities of Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Paris, Brussels, and London, was a tremendous success. Joining the tour in 1984 will be Pastor Ovenshire and various members of the Drama Department.

David's wife, Cheryl, has consistently volunteered her talent to design and decorate the stage props for the musical-drama productions. The Richards have four children, David, 16, Julie, 13, Scott, 12, and Shannon, 10.

Rev. Richards received his education at Central Bible College in Springfield, Missouri. After becoming an ordained minister in 1968, he served as Minister of Music in diverse areas of the United States, including the Assemblies of God headquarters, in Springfield for two years. David has also worked and performed with the Revival Time Choir, as has Senior Pastor of Fairlane Assembly, Pastor John A. Booher.

Darrell Ovenshire has served as the Minister of Drama and Promotion for three years, after having served as Director of Drama voluntarily for the same amount of time. Since coming to Fairlane in 1979, Darrell has implemented and developed a professional-quality drama team. He has expanded the Department to include a series of dinner theatres which portray biblical dramas and comedies in combination with fine dinners.

Darrell, and his wife, Carol, have two children, Sheryl 18, and Darrell Nathan, 16. Carol, a well-trained and talented actress, plays an integral part in the drama at Fairlane, as well as being secretary to the Rev. Booher.

Ticket information for "Alive" may be obtained by calling the church office at 561-3300. Fairlane Assembly is located east of Telegraph and one block south of Warren.

fireworks display on the River, after-dinner cocktail overlooking World's Fair Site at Top of the Mart Lounge, city tour of New Orleans, and all baggage handling, taxes and gratuities on items in this package. Double occupancy rate per person is $579.

The Chesaning Showboat trip includes round-trip bus transportation aboard a deluxe highway motorcoach, one night's accommodation at the Flint Sheraton, "best seats in the house" for the Tennessee Ernie Ford performance, all-you-can-eat family style dinner, breakfast at the Flint Sheraton, time for browsing through the varied shops in "Battle Alley" in Holly, lunch at the Historic Holly Hotel in Holly, and all baggage and handling, taxes and gratuities on items included in this package. Double occupancy rate per person is $89.

For more information or reservations on the trips, call 722-5068.

In the NBA it's Frank Layden, who led Utah to the top of the Midwest Division. It's the first time the Jazz have ever made the playoffs.

And it's a team of castoffs.

In the NHL, it's Brian Murray of Washington. After losing their first seven games they turned it around and were the best team in the league the second half of the season. Also the Capitals allowed fewer goals than any team in the league, despite having one of the youngest teams.

"Rookies of the Year."

In the NBA it's Ralph Sampson, of Houston, hands down. Sampson finished in the League's top five in rebounding and blocked shots and averaged over 20 pts. per game.

In the NHL, I pick Buffalo goalie Tom Barrasso just ahead of Steve Yzerman of Detroit Red Wings. Fans won't be happy with my pick and I know Yzerman had more points than any other rookie, but Barrasso plays a tougher position and the Sabres had a much better record than the Wings.

Also, Barrasso had the second best goals against average in the league, despite Buffalo having some young players playing defense, and overall having several rookies.

Even though Chuck Daly of the Pistons and Nick Polano probably won't win Coach of the Year honors, they did excellent jobs. The Pistons finished with the second best record ever since coming to Detroit and came within one game of winning the Central Division title. In this, Daly's first season as Detroit's coach, Polano, in his second season piloting the Wings led the team to the playoffs for the first time in six years and just the second time in 15 seasons.

I can't believe what's happened thus far in the NHL playoffs. I had picked the Bruins to win the Stanley Cup, but they were upset by the Canadiens, swept no less. I now pick the Islanders to win their fifth straight cup. The one team that could upset them is Quebec. An improved defensive team, if Goalie Dan Bouchard is on his game that will be a terrific series. Two good skating teams. However, Quebec has to beat Montreal and N.Y. has to bet by Washington. The way the playoffs have gone so far you never know.

Even though Edmonton finished with the NHL's best regular season record by far, defense wins in the playoffs and the Oilers are weak in that area. To prove my point five of the last eight Stanley Cup winners had the best goals against average during the regular season.

Washington will have problems, though, because it doesn't have enough experience.

In the NBA no team has repeated as champions since the Celtics of the late 60's. Even though the defending champion 76ERS have by far the league's best team they slept through the regular season and finished 10 games behind Boston in the Midwest Division.

Can Philadelphia turn it on and off like a faucet? I think so. The Celtics have problems in the back court and Cedrick Maxwell is a puzzle at the small forward but they are the best of the rest. A lot of people are picking Los Angeles, the leagues best team in the second half of the season. Not me.

As in hockey, defense is important in the playoffs, along with rebounding, and physical play.

The Lakers are more of a finesse team. They are not physical, don't rebound well enough, and are not strong defensively, they run and gun as well as anybody, but in the playoffs that doesn't work. No other team has a chance, including the Pistons.

Detroit gambles a lot on defense and that's fine if you have an intimidator to stop other teams from getting layups. Detroit has none. They give up too many points, too many layups. The Pistons play the Knicks in the first round of the playoffs and they can beat them. Detroit has the home court advantage and will win if they tighten up a little on defense.

But don't expect the Pistons to go much farther. Too weak defensively. I pick Philadelphia to win it all if they wake up.

Huron Theatre to stage 'Inherit the Wind' drama

The courtroom drama "Inherit the Wind" is being presented by the Huron Civic Theatre on Friday, April 27, Saturday, April 28 and Sunday, April 29, at the Huron High School Auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday.

Joanne Elliott, producer, indicated that the choice of this play was not only because of the quality of the piece, but because of the size of the cast, for it was hoped that many people in the community would be able to participate.

"It is so delightful to see so many of our people involved," said Mrs. Elliott.

"It also is extremely exciting for us to have Jack Hassett of Trenton portraying the lead role," continued Mrs. Elliott. "He is one of the finest performers this side of New York City and I am so proud that he has consented to perform this role."

"Inherit the Wind" is an excellent example of how theatre can be educational.

Tickets are $4.50 for Adults and $3.50 for Students/Senior Citizen. For further information call the Community Education Office, from 8-4 p.m. Monday thru Friday, at 782-1505.

CANCELLATIONS AND CORRECTIONS

Read your ad carefully the first time it appears, and report any errors before the next edition. This will be the only proof you will receive. Errors should be reported immediately, as Associated Newspapers, Inc. can be responsible for the first incorrect insertion only. NO CASH REFUNDS WILL BE MADE.

PUBLICATION POLICY

The publisher reserves the right to edit or reject and properly classify advertising submitted for publication. Publisher shall not be held liable for typographical errors except to the extent of the cost of first insertion and then only for that portion of ad that may have been rendered valueless by such error. Advertisers are advised to check their ad immediately after it appears in the paper and report at once any error found. Claims for error adjustment must be made immediately after ad is published.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED AD

1. IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the item or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, it's better to start your advertisement with the location.

2. BE CLEAR. Readers react more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. One of the most important considerations of any advertisement is to include this price.

3. MAKE IT EASY for the reader to respond to reach you. ALWAYS INSERT your telephone number or your name and address if you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time to have prospects contact you.

4. PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good classified ad.

5. CLASSIFIED READERS ARE already interested in buying used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are in the market to buy. Give them every advantage you can with your good ad copy.

6. CLASSIFIED ADS THAT FAIL do so not through a lack of readability, but because they are often quickly worded and do not contain enough information to prompt action.

YOUR AD APPEARS IN 6 PAPERS

• WAYNE EAGLE

• WESTLAND EAGLE

• CANTON EAGLE

• BELLEVILLE ENTERPRISE

• ROMULUS ROMAN

• INKSTER LEDGER STAR

is not golden...

You're right! The space is empty. There isn't any ad. If you operate a business and don't advertise, the silence is anything but golden. Advertising is really extending an invitation to your prospects and asking them to buy your products or use your services. If you aren't advertising, you aren't selling.

In this network of newspaper work one of my colleagues remarked: "That the front pages of a newspaper contain the destruction of mankind, while the sports page depicts his accomplishments."

That statement may be more philosophical than true, but the madness of mankind seldom reaches these pages, we'll all agreed. It's usually reserved for the spectacular headlines and bold types of the front pages.

TOLSON

And, it is unfortunate that more space isn't reserved for the young and talented athletes, like the two who are mentioned below: Doug Tolson of Westland and Eric Moore of Inkster.

Tolson is a former high school All-American cross country and track great who prepped at Wayne Memorial, while Moore is developing into one of the top young gridders and shot putters in this state, competing for the University of Detroit High.

First let's catch up (and that's a tough thing for anyone to do) with Tolson, who has launched his senior year at the University of Tennessee with great expectations.

Tolson, a 5-10, 144-pound athlete, earned recognition as the top Vols' distance runner over the past year and is considered as one of the most accomplished runners in the SEC Conference.

Doug gained All-America accolades in cross country last fall, finishing second at the conference meet and 26th at the national championships.

At the 1984 SEC indoor championships, Doug finished first in the three miles, outlasting teammate Phil Bedford by one-hundredth of a second (13:42.92).

He also registered the University of Tennessee's top 5000-meter time in 1983, enjoying a 14:08.6 at the Dogwood Relays and in the 10,000 meters he was clocked in 29:52.6. Doug was also first in the 5000 meters in a thrilling 81-72 victory over arch-rival, Alabama.

Lauded by the Vols' coaching staff for his fierce competitive spirit and mental toughness, Tolson hopes someday to compete in the Olympics.

Moore is just an all-around, outstanding athlete who stars in the classroom as well. At the recent Huron Relays, hosted by Eastern Michigan University, Eric had a toss of 52 feet, 4 inches in the shot put, and anytime anyone has a put of 50 feet or more he's going to attract a lot of attention.

MOORE

Moore also excelled in football last season and was named All-American. He'll continue his athletic career at Howard University where he was awarded a four-year football scholarship which is worth approximately $40,000.

Eric is focusing his attention on a business career.

"For all of Eric's accomplishments, he remains a very unassuming young man. Coaches of opposing teams frequently comment about his mild manner," remarked Coach Jerry Myszkowski.

Eric's father is James C. Moore, who is director of Special Services at Wayne State University and his mother, Dorothy, is a counselor for Detroit Public Schools.

Needless to say, (but we will) the Moores are "awfully proud of their son."

All-American leads All-Area prep swimmers

Rodd Wohlfeil is considered one of the top high school swimmers in the country. The 17-year-old Cherry Hill senior has been undefeated in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle this year and has been invited by "Sports for Understanding" to spend the summer in Italy to help promote understanding between the two countries.

Wohlfeil, who led the undefeated Spartans to the Tri-River Conference championship and a sixth place finish in the state, leads this year's Associated Newspapers' High School All-Area Swimming & Diving Teams.

Joining this elite club with Wohlfeil in the 200-yard freestyle are: Brian Byndas (Wayne Memorial), Brian Pawlowicz (Westland John Glenn), Brian Cotter (Cherry Hill); in the 200-yard individual medley: Matt Pryor (Cherry Hill), John Baird (Livonia Churchill), David Jensen (Westland John Glenn).

The All-Area Line-up also includes: Martin Baxter (Cherry Hill), Chris Whitt (Belleville), Ray Ouellette (Cherry Hill) in the 50-yard freestyle.

Selected as the top divers in the area are: Vic Valente (Livonia Churchill), Matt McCatalen (Wayne Memorial) and Tim Dubois (Westland John Glenn).

Picked to represent the area in the 100-yard butterfly are: Steve Soules (Wayne Memorial), Marc Wohlfeil (Cherry Hill), and David Lara (Cherry Hill); in the 100-yard freestyle are: Rodd Wohlfeil (Cherry Hill), Ben Griffith (Belleville), and Mike Greuber (Wayne Memorial).

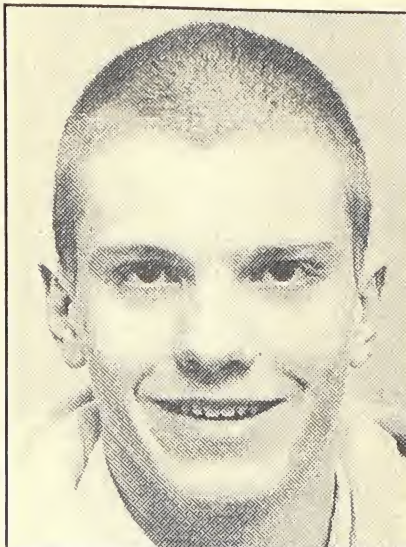

The best of the distance freestyle swimmers include: Kevin Martin (Wayne Memorial), Greg Lynch (Belleville), and Jim Scoggins (Cherry Hill) who were named for the 500-yard freestyle event; in the 100-yard backstroke are Matt Kirchner (Belleville), Dan Ford (Westland John Glenn), Harpo Dubisky (Belleville).

Jim Hutchenson (Livonia Churchill), Dan Kazar (Westland John Glenn) and Keith Head (Wayne Memorial) are the area's representatives in the 100-yard breaststroke event.

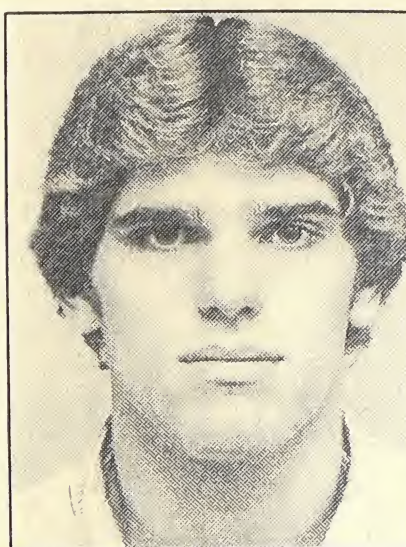

Area coaches selected Cherry Hill's 400-yard freestyle relay team of Matt Pryor, Marc Wohlfeil, Brian Cotter and Rodd Wohlfeil as the No. 1 entry and Belleville's Chris Whitt, Karl Duda, Damon Sulkey and Ben Griffith as the back-up crew.

The 200-medley relay foursome consists of Ken Beard, Jim Hutchenson, Dave Morowski and John Baird. Belleville was close behind with Chris Whitt, Karl Duda, Damon Sulkey and Ben Griffith.

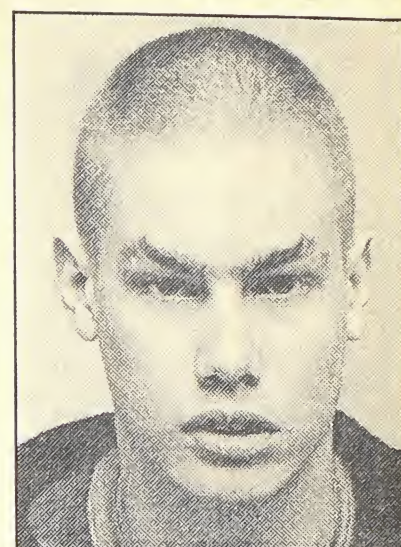

The Coach of the Year is Cherry Hill's Debbie Karabees, who guided the Spartans to a untarnished record in the Tri-River Conference and an over-all 14-1 mark before finishing sixth at the Class B state finals.

DEBBIE KARABEES

'Unbeatable' Karabees is 'Coach of the Year'

Cherry Hill, a small Class B school, has produced swimmers who would be considered outstanding in any class.

And one of the reasons why the Spartans have a tremendous amount of respect in the sport is Debbie Karabees.

Karabees, a native of Sunnyville, California who lettered four years in swimming at Michigan State University, guided the Spartans to a perfect league record and the Tri-River Conference Championship. Her team posted an outstanding 14-1 over-all record for the 1983-84 campaign, finishing sixth at state.

Some of the times her swimmers posted at state would be considered tops in Class A.

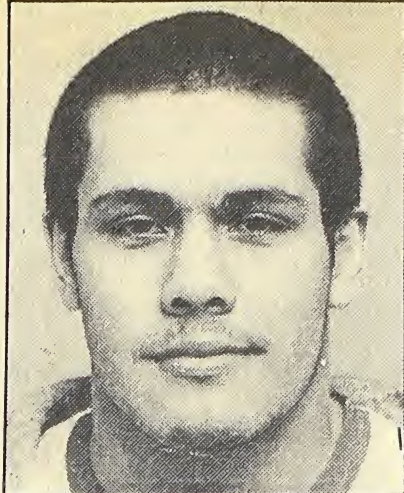

"There's only a little difference now between the times Class A and Class B swimmers show," Coach Karabees noted. "The gap is closing fast."

For her contributions to the sport of swimming and to education, The Associated Newspapers is honored to name Debbie Karabees as its "Coach of the Year".

Why has Cherry Hill been able to dominate its league for nearly a decade and has been among the top teams in the area for the past two decades? Coach Karabees replied:

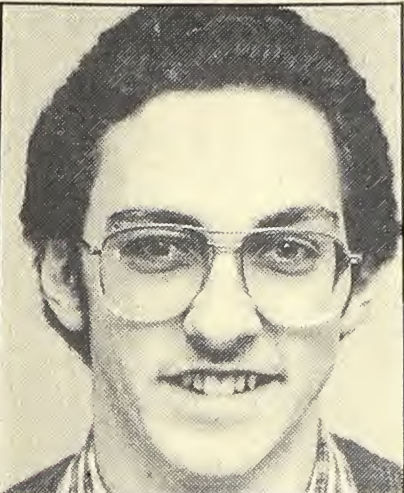

"Despite the external forces, such as seeking jobs and a wide range of other activities, our kids have remained dedicated to training and working hard. And whenever you have that combination a coach is going to get positive results."

Top prep swimmers lauded

Here is a thumbnail sketch of the top high school swimmers in the area:

WHITT, a senior at Belleville High, is a versatile swimmer who excels in the backstroke, (he goes the 100 in a minute flat), the 100-yard freestyle (50.1) and the 50 freestyle (23.0). Chris qualified for state and finished among the top in three events in the tough Wolverine A. Conference.

GRIFFITH, also a senior at Belleville, joins Whitt, Greg Lynch and Damon Sulkey on the winning freestyle relay. Ben is an outstanding sprinter who also qualified for the state in the 200-yard medley relay and the 100-yard freestyle.

SULKEY, a junior, qualified in three individual events at the league meet and was second in the 100-yard butterfly. He swam on the relay teams, qualifying in both the 200-yard medley and the 400-yard freestyle.

"We're expecting a lot from Damon next year," said Belleville Coach Sam Vicchy.

DUDA was one of the "big surprises" in the Belleville swim season as he also placed in three events at the league meet. He's top-notch in the 100-breaststroke and butterfly and also swam on the medley relay team. Karl also will be back a year from now to help form the Tiger nucleus.

DUBITSKY is only a sophomore and he has already carved out a niche for himself as a stand-out. A member of the 200-yard medley relay team and shooting for a gold in the 100-yard backstroke, thanks to swimmers of Harpo's caliber, the Tigers will be a title contender in the Wolverine A a year from now.

LYNCH scored in three events at the conference championships and wears a gold medal for his efforts on the winning 400-yard freestyle relay team. Watch for him to shatter records on the 200 and 500 freestyle events next year.

"Greg has tremendous potential," said Coach Vicchy, "and it will be a joy to have this sophomore back in the line-up."

KIRCHNER, a junior, got the job done for the Tigers as a member of the medley team and in the backstroke.

"The sophs and juniors will form the bulk of our team coming back next season," pointed out the Tiger coach, "and we're really optimistic about 1984-85."

Belleville finished behind league champ, Monroe, and Wayne Memorial at the inaugural Wolverine "A" Championships. The Tigers piled up a 12-3 dual meet record.

SOULES brought the curtains down on a superb swim career at Wayne Memorial and as a member of Coach Jim McPartlin's teams. He helped the Zebras capture a Great Lakes 8 Conference title before finishing second in the first race for the Wolverine A crown. His best time for the 100-yard butterfly is a 54.7.

GREUBER also is a senior who bows from the prep scene but not before setting records and showing a 50.1 for the 100-yard freestyle and a 1:03.8 for the 100-yard breaststroke.

BYNDAS is the area swimmer to catch in the 200-yard and the 500-yard freestyle events, where this 17-year-old senior was clocked in 1:49.1 and 4:57.2, respectively. With Soules, Greuber and Byndas out of Coach McPartlin's line-up, Wayne will be rebuilding next year.

HEAD is the key to the Zebras' rebuilding program. A sophomore who has excellent credentials. Keith has touched in at 1:04 for the 100-yard breaststroke. He's versatile so that McPartlin can switch him to whatever event is needed.

COTTER is one of Cherry Hill's tri-captains, and was named to the Tri-River Conference all-league team. He also earned all-state accolades. He's considered as one of the top '20' high school swimmers in the Michigan Intercollegiate High School Association's rankings.

PRYOR also is an all-league, all-state competitor who went undefeated in the 500-yard freestyle this year. One of the reasons why Coach Debbie Karabees can smile when thinking about the future is that Pryor is only a freshman.

BAXTER is a soph and will also return to the line-up a year hence. An all-league performer who is a state qualifier, Baxter is ranked in the Top '18' MISCA ratings.

OUELLETTE was a state qualifier and also an all-league performer. He is a junior who will be one of the mainstays of the Spartan league next year.

MARC WOHLFEIL also is completing his prep career and this all-state swimmer has set a series of conference records in helping the Spartans dominate the Tri-River. He also served as a tri-captain.

SCOGGINS earned the nickname of "Mr. Guts" as he claimed all-league consideration and qualified for the state. Only a first year swimmer, Scoggins is a senior who performed with consistency throughout the rugged campaign.

LARA also ended a season and prep career with a gold medal at the league meet and as a state qualifier.

RODD WOHLFEIL can list a myriad accomplishments in his credentials, including All-American consideration; senior Indiana/Michigan Meet champ, and undefeated in the 50-100 yard freestyle events during the 1984 season. His career is just beginning.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By John Brimble

Nouvelle cuisine has emphasized the warm salad; its dressing is heated before tossing. (Seems we made wilted lettuce with warm dressing a generation ago.)

Hard avocados will ripen faster in a closed brown paper bag; ripe avocados will keep a week in the crispier of your refrigerator.

Cocktail party treat: mix a small can of little shrimp, drained, with 4-ounce container of whipped cream cheese with chives. Jazz it up with worcestershire sauce, garlic powder, and hot pepper sauce, and stuff into large fresh mushroom caps. Sprinkle with Parmesan, bake 15 minutes at 400°.

A half cup of softened butter and a half cup of honey, beaten together until fluffy, create a super spread for waffles, french toast, and pancakes.

Real men DO eat quiche, when it's this good: combine a can of oyster stew with 4 beaten eggs and pepper to taste. Pour into a baked pie shell that's been lined with crumbled bacon and ¾ cup shredded swiss cheese. Bake at 350° for 45 to 55 minutes, until it tests done.

Extension says 'bye' to Don Juchartz

The City of Wayne and all of southeastern Michigan will miss Donald D. Juchartz, who retired from his position as Extension Agricultural Agent for Wayne County and south-east Michigan on April 1.

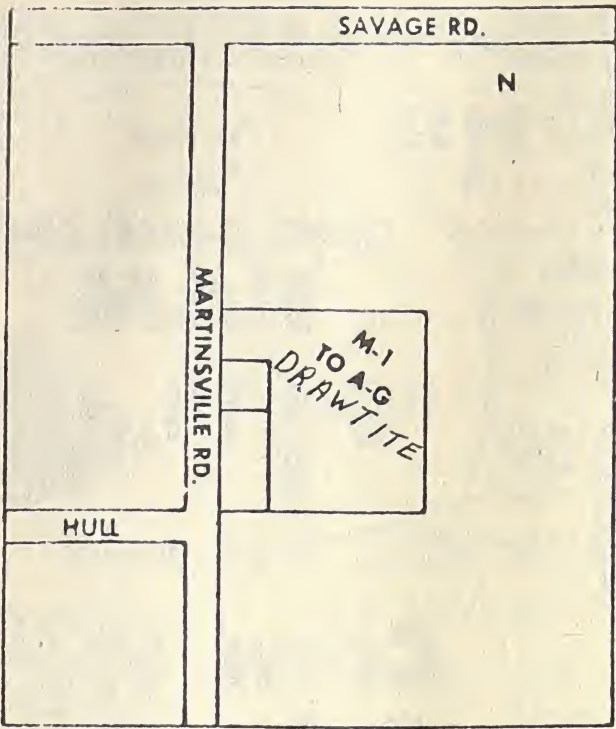

Juchartz, who retired at the young age of 55, had 29 years of experience under his belt. A surprise retirement dinner, given in his honor drew 180 guests from throughout the state to Bailey Community Center in Westland.

Mary Wilson, who worked for Juchartz and organized the banquet, said that "working for Don was a tremendous learning experience — he was almost like a walking encyclopedia around the office. We're all going to miss him a lot."

State to reimburse firefighters' OT

Western Wayne County communities will be able to receive reimbursement of funds spent for overtime pay for firefighters as the result of a state law enacted in 1983.

The legislation is the first attempt by the state to reimburse local units of government for the expenses incurred as a result of an increase in the federal minimum wage in the 1970s. At that time, language was added by the state, stating that it would pick up the tab for all overtime incurred by firefighters.

The 1983 law required that a survey be conducted by the State Department of Management and Budget to determine the amount of reimbursement for overtime payments due to each local governmental unit.

According to State Rep. Edward Mahalak, whose 37th District includes a large portion of Western Wayne County, that survey was completed Nov. 1, 1983.

Initial indications are that Canton Township will receive more than $5,000 for overtime expense incurred in 1983. Neighboring Wayne will receive $2,700.

"Due to financial restraints... this is only a partial reimbursement, and it looks at the present time, that the Department of Management and Budget will have to refigure the recommendation for fiscal 1985," Mahalik said. "It is my understanding that the state will have to cover some $3 million in reimbursements that have been filed by local units of government."

Mahalak said the procedure for reimbursing local governments will continue until such time as legislation is enacted to change the language holding the state liable for all overtime labor costs.

Reported on Pioneer Apartments. DNR will reissue a new deed to the property. If the Township sells the property very little will be realized in the way of monies going into the general fund. Most of the money would go to the State for monies owed on the property.

Clerk Banotai also asked what could be done to collect the fee due the Township on the existing ponds in the Township. Geraldine Croft, right background, poses with her proud second graders, and two of their hand made kites.

Up and away

Youngsters learn about spring, master art of kite making

Students of second grade teacher Geraldine Croft are prepared for spring winds.

"Since we have been talking about wind, weather, and seasons," she said, "I though this would be a good opportunity to get in this activity."

The Hale Creek Elementary teacher in Romulus was referring to the kites the children made at home with the help of their parents.

"It always works better to get the whole family involved," she noted. "And it makes the children think it is important if mom and dad are helping."

The kites were displayed throughout the school, some taped to the walls in the hallway. Each kite has its own decoration, some very imaginative and all very colorful.

And these kites are different. They are made from home materials and not kits.

The spring winds inspired

Croft, and Croft inspired the children. The kites should inspire some high spirits.

Remember typing class? Remember the old Remingtons or Smith-Coronas with a touch control it would take Mr. T to dominate and an alphabet all its own?

That was the past — and the far distant past it would appear looking at the futuristic, state-of-the-art technology at Belleville High School.

The 150 students presently enrolled in the seven clerical studies classes at the school now have access to four new word processors, machines that make typewriters as antiquated as the hula-hoop.

Each student in the 11th and 12th grade clerical studies classes is receiving introductory training on the Exxon 520 machines, the type now considered invaluable in most business offices. The machines were purchased for the school with funding from a federal government program.

And while all the students have access to the introductory training, the seniors will have additional time on the word-

PUBLIC HEARING MINUTES

APRIL 10, 1984

Meeting called to order by Supervisor Craven at 7:00 p.m. Present: Supervisor Craven, Clerk Dudick, Treasurer Hall, Trustees Jahr, Maton and Montgomery, Secretary Tadrick and approximately 22 interested residents.

Supervisor Craven explained the purpose of the Public Hearing was to consider names for Impoundment commonly called Belleville Lake and to receive input on changing of Township name. At the last Board Meeting held March 27th a Resolution was presented to change the name of the Lake. Much discussion was held resulting in a Motion to hold this Public Hearing to receive input from Township residents as to whether they would like to have the names changed. Since that time research was done with the following results: Lake name can be changed however, Township name can only be changed by action of the State Legislature. Four members of the audience address the Board expressing opposition to any name change for the Lake or Township. No support was received to consider changing the name of the Lake or the name of the Township. Supervisor suggested name change be dropped.

There being no further comments the Public Hearing was adjourned at 7:12 p.m.

Lucas initiates petition drive for more 'county reform'

WILLIAM LUCAS

Wayne County Executive William Lucas has launched a "Say Yes to County Reform" campaign to kick off circulation of petitions to place five charter amendments on the November ballot.

"The amendments are designed to make county government function more smoothly and efficiently," Lucas said. "If they wanted to, the Board of Commissioners could vote to put these measures on the ballot. So far, they have not acted to do this. We cannot wait for the commissioners to decide whether or not they will allow the people to see these proposals."

To assure that Wayne County voters have the opportunity to study and vote on these amendments, "Say Yes to County Reform!" Committee has been established.

"Petitions will be circulated all over Wayne County," said Lucas. "I urge citizens to sign all five petitions. By necessity the amendments are written in complex legalese, but what they will do can be summed up in one sentence: The amendments will bring roads, drains, parks, airports and court functions under county reform and reorganization, and will give the county executive authority to make appointments and enter into contracts."

"Once again, we are going

"I am at a loss to understand why the Board of Commissioners would hesitate to put these matters on the ballot. Even if they disagree with some of the language, they certainly shouldn't disagree with the people's right to decide."

New tools of the trades

The Vocational Building's Welding Shop has received five new pieces of equipment — two tungsten inert gas welders, a coordinate optical drive cutting machine and two metallic inert gas welders. The machines were purchased with state and federal monies. The cutting machine uses a pinpoint light beam reflected on a pattern to cut parts by using an oxy-acetylene cutting source. The inert gas welders are continuous wire-feed welders used in nearly all high capacity metal working industries and the tungsten inert gas welder which is used in manufacturing plants throughout the world. The welding shop, with Jack Blackhall as the instructor, handles approximately eighty students per day. Pictured above is Blackhall, who demonstrates the cutting machine and the end result is — Weathervane made by machine.

David Voakes, senior, in Phil Newpert's woodworking class, is constructing an all-purpose storage box. The wood was donated by Hellmuth Weiss, a local contractor. Weiss, who has been hired to reconstruct drafting tables at General Motors, gave the lumber that was left to Belleville High School.

BPW hears about working women

The Belleville Business and Professional Women met for their monthly dinner meeting on Monday, April 2. The women's society of the Denton Methodist Church prepared dinner for the 33 members present. Table decorations followed an Easter theme and included daffodils and pussy-willows, green grass and colored eggs, and orchid and yellow placemats.

Deborah Erwin, attorney and club member, gave a talk on discrimination and comparable worth of working women. These injustices are now being recognized but, the changes are slow in coming to the forefront of employers. Working women will continue to narrow the present wage gap between women and men doing comparable work. The wage rate remains at 59 cents for working women as compared to $1 per hour for working men, according to Erwin.

New members welcomed to the BPW were Carolyn Curtis and Delores Temple.

Study Club studies missionaries

The Women's Study Club of Belleville met on April 11 in the lounge of The First United Methodist Church.

During the business meeting the group collected its "penny-a-day" fund for Girlstown; contributed $25 to the Hobey Leadership Foundation which will help to sponsor a local boy to the Leadership seminar this summer; authorized four members to attend the State Convention of Federated Women's Clubs in Grand Rapids on April 26, 27 and 28 and reported 175 hours of volunteer work done by members during the past month.

The program for the evening was presented by Mrs. Floyd Griffith, who showed

As April is the annual meeting, all club reports were printed in the club Bulletin. Officers for the 1984-85 year were selected, and will be installed at the May meeting.

Delegates and alternates also were chosen to attend the State BPW Convention in Flint May 18-20 and the National BPW Convention in Nashville, Tenn., July 22-26.

Members were encouraged to save rummage for the Big Sale on April 28. Plans for the Annual Progressive Dinner May 5 also were discussed. Items of a Strawberry decor were requested for Strawberry Festival booth June 22-24.

The group was updated on the progress of the two annual scholarships and the applications being made for state awards.

Everyone was encouraged to become involved with the local Library Association to help regulate the Fred C. Fischer Library of Belleville.

pictures and described the work her daughter and son-in-law, Anne and Gib Griffith — Barrus are doing with the mountain people of Honduras. The young couple work under the auspices of the Code Volunteer Services, maintained by the Church of the Brethren and the country of Honduras.

The thrust of the movement is to help the people develop their methods of agriculture, diet and general welfare. It was refreshing to hear about this young couple who are dedicating their lives to helping others.

A dessert and tea, served by hostesses Mrs. Don White and Mrs. John Petraskey, rounded off the evening.

Past Matrons Association meets

The April meeting of the Past Matron's Association of Belleville Chapter No. 73, O.E.S., was held at the Robson Road home of Past Matron Elda Bohl on Thursday, April 5.

Sixteen members and one guest, June Hawkins. Worthy Matron, enjoyed the luncheon served at tables decorated with the Easter colors. Hand-painted eggs were favors.

The president, Florence McKelvey, conducted the business meeting with the Chaplain, Eva Luper, having devotions, reading two poems by Helen Steiner Rice and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Officers elected for the new year were: Roby Clayton, president; Edna Florian, vice-president; Rose Ann Welt, secretary; and Frances Cothorn, treasurer.

Lenore Gaddy held the lucky number for the drawing. On leaving the hostess presented each one with a loaf of home-made carrot bread.

Cora Bradshaw will be the May hostess.
